

The new kid on the block

Landon Dix Design Studio is influenced primarily by his roots in product design and by creating innovative and functional products. His vision is to bring global design trends to the local market. Landon has worked between the Sunshine Coast and the North Shore of Vancouver his entire life and consequently has developed a great appreciation of our natural surroundings, from sourcing materials and products that support local economies to pushing the limits of what is available on global markets.

Landon Dix Design Studio offers architecturally based design services, construction drawings, custom kitchens, bathrooms, furniture, millwork, renovations, new builds as well as commercial projects.

If you're looking for an innovative approach to your next project be sure to give Landon Dix Design Studio a call.

Specializing in home renovation and custom millwork design, Durston Design has made a recent move to Gibsons BC. Founder and principal designer Stephanie Durston has been involved in residential interior design for eight years with focus on full scale renovation since launching her company in 2014. Joining her family who has lived in Gibsons for three years, she is excited about supporting and working with locals who are looking to create their dream home here on the Sunshine Coast.

A graduate of the BCIT Interior Design program Stephanie is trained to take your space from concept development right through to construction drawings and interior finishing. Known for her attention to detail and a personal design style which is greatly influenced by mid-century modern designers and spaces, she sees the beauty in simplicity and pays attention to every detail blending natural elements like stone and wood with modern touches and functionality.

To quote Stephanie, "good design is a process; I rely on my skills, education and the trust of my clients to help turn a concept into a functioning, beautiful space that they will enjoy for years to come. I do not design for myself, I listen to my clients and offer the best design solutions for their specific needs. The result is a home that they love and work that I am proud to stand behind." -Submitted
